THE MONTANA SENATORS.

A great deal of political interest will be felt in the course which will be pursued by the Committee on Privileges and Elections of the United States Senate respecting the claims of the four Senators from Montana, whose credentials will probably be presented this week. Undoubtedly objection will be made to seating either the Republican or Democratic candidates, pending an investigation of their claims by the committee, and it is said to be the desire of members of the committee to go fully into the question of the organization of the Montana Legislature.

The Omaha Bee thinks this should be done. The determination of the issue in Montana, so far as the Senators are concerned, should be made with the greatest possible freedom from partisan considerations. The majority in the United States Senate can better afford to lose the two Republican Senators from Montana than to seat them without the justification of unimpeachable facts showing their right to seat. If a fair, impartial and thorough investigation of the issue should show, as undoubtedly it would, that the organization of the Montana Legislature rightfully belonged to the Republicans, and therefore that the Republican Senators are entitled to their seats, the Democrats could derive no political capital from the result, but to seat the Republican Senators without thorough investigation and ample justification in the facts would supply the opposition with capital that it might hereafter employ with considerable advantage to itself. But apart from the political or partisan aspects of the case the Senate owes it to its own character and dignity to demonstrate that in the exercise of its constitutional prerogative of judging the elections, returns and qualifications of its members it can rise superior to partisan influences and do exact justice.

This issue is somewhat unfortunate for Montana, which is likely to be for some time without representation in the Senate, but it is not so seriously complicated that a determination of it need be very long delayed. The whole matter really rests upon the vote of a single precinct and the evidence regarding this is doubtless very accessible. At any rate it is the obvious duty of the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections to go fully into the whole matter so that the result can be justified before the country.

The irrigation problem is gradually finding a solution in private enterprise and capital in Wyoming. Forty-five hundred miles of ditches have already been constructed, adding hundreds of thousands of acres of land to the tillable area and creating a property value estimated at ten million dollars. A company has been organized to tap the North Platte in western Nebraska and with sixty miles of canal to irrigate a quarter of million acres in Nebraska and Wyoming. The cost of these so-called canals is a trifle compared with the vast benefits to accrue to the investors and tillers of the soil. Few enterprises insure such permanency of profits as a properly managed irrigating ditch.

THE TREND OF EVENTS.

An Eastern exchange says: While we are not accustomed to insist upon the absolute correctness of United States census reports, they certainly furnish the best evidence available to us as to most of the matters of which they treat, and when their testimony concurs with that from other sources, it ought to be accepted as fairly reliable.

On the authority of those reports we are informed that the population of this country has been in 1880 as one to every 1,847 inhabitants, in 1870 as one to every 1,021 inhabitants, in 1860 as one to every 837 inhabitants. This is a very rapid increase, and it is evident that during the twenty years the population has nearly doubled in its ratio to the entire population.

The relation of intemperance to this condition of affairs is not questioned except as to degree. Some statisticians charge the liquor traffic with the responsibility of one-fourth of the nation's crime record, and while the enormity of that statement of ratio may be doubted few thoughtful men would question an apportionment of three-fourths.

Less than a year ago a New York daily paper sent inquiries to the police authorities of most of the principal cities of the United States concerning the status of crime in those cities, whether increasing or decreasing. The questions were both general and specific, including an inquiry as to intemperance generally and also as to intemperance among women.

The official reply was a record calculated to appall any lover of humanity. That from Boston, under high license and rigid limitation of liquor saloons, says: "Crime is on the increase. Arrests for 1888 increased over 1887 by 5238. Drunkenness increased by 1000, by 2044 in 1889. Total was 5592 above the average of previous nine years. Drunkenness among women is on the increase, very much so. Within the past few months the number of women arraigned in court for this offense has been doubled."

The New York World has recently commented upon the police records of the last year, whose figures are certainly startling. Arrests in New York City for crime and misdemeanors during the year were 85,049 persons, or 19,355 more than in 1888, 1,003 of the latter being under 20 years of age. Added to this record is one, only a little less bad, as to the lodgers in police station houses, 150,812 in number during the year, of whom 65,873 were women. Both as to criminals and lodgers the evidence is that the proportion of women is constantly increasing.

We do not strain an argument in the least when we insist that every intelligent man and woman knows that this terrible condition of crime and misery is chiefly the fruit of the liquor traffic, and it is evident to find so many well-fed, well-dressed, well-housed men and women of intemperance, who will not raise a hand in the effort to stay this terrible devastation of humanity. They sip their wine, quaff their beer, look wise, talk about "high license," and condemn "anarchists" while the work of destruction hourly increases in its volume, equally in high license Boston and low license New York.

There will surely be a day of judgment and retribution.

THE RUSSIAN NEW YEAR.

Head Dress of Cloth of Gold and the Duke Alexis.

ST. PETERSBURG IN GAY ATTIRE.

Celebration of the Event at the St. Petersburg Winter Palace and Some of the Costliest Worn—The Diplomatic Corps Assembled at St. George Hall.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 18.—The streets and quays were gay with flags yesterday, warning with coaches and servants in gala livery in honor of the Russian new year and the imperial family settled in St. Petersburg. The diplomatic corps assembled in the famous hall of St. George in the Winter Palace, with General Benckwitz at their head. Some gaps in the ranks showed that influenza still held its grip. The Italian Ambassadors were among the absentees. The ladies of the court, in Russian national dress, mastered in the adjoining Alexandria hall to await the arrival of the imperial cortege, which entered at 12:45, preceded by Prince Douroukoff, Grand Master. The Grand Marshal and other high court officials, in strange Oriental dresses, and the brilliant uniforms of the Cossack escort added much to the picturesque of the scene. The Czar wore the uniform of a general officer and looked strong, handsome and well. He graciously received the congratulations of the diplomatists, addressing a few words to the chiefs of Legations on general topics, but nothing of a political nature. The Czarina looked superb in a dress of gold brocade, with a train four metres long, trimmed a metre deep at the end with Russian sable, the trimming gradually narrowing to the waist. The skirt was trimmed with a double row of rubies, between which were superclusters of sapphires, rubies and diamonds. The center stone of the magnificent necklace of sapphires and diamonds was an enormous uncut oval sapphire, each cluster being as big as a small Mandarin's orange, while glittering on the corsage, also trimmed with sable, was a cut sapphire very little smaller, surrounded by large diamonds. The Kokoshnik, or Russian head dress of cloth of gold, was encircled with row after row of diamonds and sapphires and rubies. The head dress was worn far back on the head, underneath it was a circlet of diamonds as big as walnuts. Behind hung a veil of old Mechlin. The little Grand Duchess Anna made her first appearance at a New Year's reception, and looked charming. The two youngest Grand Dukes were in uniform, as were also the three little sons of the Grand Duke Vladimir in natty little houses. The Grand Dukes Paul and Large were present, as were also Grand Duchess Catherine Nicholayevna and Grand Duchess Feodora in a light blue dress, trimmed with ermine. The Grand Duchess Vladimir was not in attendance, and Grand Duke Nicholas and Constantine, whose condition is unchanged, were absent on account of illness. Grand Duke Alexis was present and wore an Admiral's uniform. The Czarina was particularly gracious, extending her hand to be kissed. Several members of the Diplomatic Corps and deputations of native and foreign merchants also presented congratulations, the whole function lasting more than an hour. The day ended with a family dinner at the Palace.

THE PLACE FOR INVESTMENTS.

Big Opportunities for American Capital in Mexican Enterprises.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Edward W. Jackson, general manager of the Mexican Central railway, in an interview declares Mexico a fruitful field for American capital. "A one time," said he, "capitalists were afraid to invest in Mexico, but now investments are being made in the country by the shareholders of European and American money holders. The foreigners are purchasing mines, manufacturing of all sorts, and big business houses, and are building railroads and leading enormous sums for public improvements. The Mexican Central railroad is owned by Americans—in fact it is a Boston corporation. It now owns 1,800 miles of track and is building to Tampico and into western Mexico. The scheme for building a railroad through the Isthmus of Panama and into the heart of South America seems impracticable. Unmountable difficulties prevent the construction of the road, and even were it constructed the company could not compete with the steamship and railway line by way of Tehuantepec. The railroad across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec will soon be finished, and it will shorten the traveling distance from New Orleans to western South American ports many hundreds of miles."

The Burlington and the Saloon.

A circular has been recently issued by the Q. R. railroad management to the effect that no one of intemperate habits will be employed by the company in any capacity. Discharge for a second offense of drunkenness is made obligatory on the Superintendent and Master Mechanic, and those discharged for that offense cannot again be employed without the consent of the General Manager. This is something of a surprise to the boys and is creating no little talk.

The statement has been made by the lawyers in the Stewart case that the litigation is settled. Judge Hinton rules that no one of intemperate habits will be employed by the company in any capacity. Discharge for a second offense of drunkenness is made obligatory on the Superintendent and Master Mechanic, and those discharged for that offense cannot again be employed without the consent of the General Manager. This is something of a surprise to the boys and is creating no little talk.

WHERE IMMIGRANTS SETTLE.

How They are Governed in Choosing Homes in the West.

It is interesting to observe how the different nationalities that make up the stream of immigrants which lands on our shores have a certain tendency to cluster in colonies. This is partly due to a desire to associate with friends, or at least with people of the same language and the same interests; partly also to the fact that certain places are better fitted for men of a certain class, says a writer in the New York Tribune. Of course, individuals of almost every nationality are scattered all over the United States, but still, with the exception of the English, Irish and Germans, who are about equally divided among the different States, but the different nationalities prefer some certain localities.

The Welsh immigrants, most of whom are miners, go chiefly to Pennsylvania, where their headquarters are to be found around Scranton. At this place during the winter Welsh performances are given at a theater.

The Scandinavians generally go to the northwestern States. The Dakotas, perhaps, get the largest share of them, although Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and Minnesota also contain for a large part of them skilled laborers or artisans, so must engage in farming. The Danes of late have largely gone to Nebraska, and the Finlanders seem to find in the forests of Michigan and Northern Ohio occupations and a climate which suit them exactly.

The Hebrews, from Russia, Poland, Austria and Rumania, for the large part settle in New York. More than one-half of them are tailors, about one-third peddlers, and the rest are divided among the different trades. Of genuine Russians, only a few emigrate to this country. During the later years, a great many German-Americans, who came to work on the railroads, have come to this country. They still keep up their German language, traditions and customs, and are all farmers. Most of them go to Dakota. They are large and powerful built men, and when they are in their prime, on the whole, with a few of children following them all clad in the same way, they form a picturesque sight.

From the Austro-Hungarian monarchy come the Slavaks, Poles and Hungarians, most of whom go to Pennsylvania and work in the coal mines or coal yards; the Bohemians, who go to the iron mines of Arizona, and the Tyrolese, the Dalmatians, the Dorations and Moravians, who generally settle in Pennsylvania around Pittsburgh.

The Indians may be divided into three classes. Those who are merely common laborers, and who come to the States to work on the railroads, street cleaning, etc., etc., for a large part go to New York or its vicinity; from here they are sent by their bosses or padrones all over the country, wherever railroads are being built. From northern Italy comes a large number of miners, who chiefly go to the coal mines in Illinois or Michigan, or the mines of Arizona, and the Tyrolese, the Dalmatians, the Dorations and Moravians, who generally settle in Pennsylvania around Pittsburgh.

Most of the Icelanders go to Manitoba; there is also a colony of them in Wyoming, N. J., where they work in the brick yards. The Armenians, of whom a great many have arrived lately, are like the Arabs, peddlers or traders, in which case they stay in New York, or they are silk weavers and stay in towns, or they are common laborers. The last named class, almost without exception, go to Worcester, Mass., where a large number of them are employed in wire factories.

STANLEY ARRIVES AT CAIRO.

The Great Explorer Meets With a Cordial Reception.

CAIRO, Jan. 14.—Stanley arrived at noon today, meeting with a notable reception at the station from Sir Evelyn Baring, General Sir Francis Grenfell, Acting United States Consul General Grant and others. He went to the Khedive's palace in state, made an official call on him lasting half an hour and was decorated with the grand cordon of Mid-jidich, a very distinguished honor. Stanley was warmly greeted by a large crowd at Sheppard's hotel. Stanley looks very well, his bronzed face showing below a white German cap and above a suit of the same. The members of his party are in excellent health and spirits. He thinks that Emin will be here in a month. Stanley gave me a few minutes talk. He said that the rumors of his death were due to the non-arrival of letters sent by bands of picked messengers, who were stopped by hostile tribes five days from where Bartlett was killed. He himself found two parties of his messengers there when on his way to the coast. Stanley says that Emin, with his great influence and tact, would be an invaluable agent at Sankin or Wadyhalfa. Backed by military authority he would pave the way for a better understanding between the Egyptian Government and the native tribes. Emin left seven-five tons of ivory behind. Stanley speaks in the highest terms of his party. He dined with the Khedive Thursday. King Leopold sent an officer with a letter of congratulation.

GENERAL VALLEJO DEAD.

MASTER WORKMAN POWDERLY ARRESTED, BUT RELEASED ON BAIL.

Spicy News From All Sections of the Globe Special to the "Journal."

Twelve Men of an American Vessel Suffer Terrible Privations.

NEWCASTLE, Jan. 17.—The steamer Elfreda arrived off Dover this afternoon and sent ashore in a lifeboat a crew of twelve men who had been rescued under exciting circumstances from the American bark Nordcap, of Brunswick, which had become a wreck on the Atlantic during the recent heavy gales. The shipwrecked crew was removed to the Dover sailors' home, where their wants were attended to by Davidson, the Superintendent. All were suffering from contusions. The captain of the Nordcap, Mulachy, said that the Nordcap bark, 800 tons, left St. Johns, for Penarth with a cargo December 21. A few days later the vessel encountered a violent gale, which continued very severe the following day. Sea swamped the deck frequently. On the 31st, a tremendous sea struck the vessel, smashing the cabin and swept away the boats. Other seas added to the damage. The vessel became unmanageable and began to fill rapidly. The seas swept the vessel fore and aft, carrying away everything movable. The crew only saved themselves by lashing themselves to the fixtures. Then followed great privations and suffering. What little food and water could be obtained was put into the foretop, and for three days and nights the crew stood at the pumps incessantly, until the work was useless and the vessel began to burst by the swelling cargo. The crew was worn out from want of sleep and fatigue in battling with the seas. The chief mate, John Race, says he and his companions remained in this condition, suffering very much from exposure and want of sleep, until rescued by the Elfreda, which succeeded, with great difficulty, in sending a lifeboat alongside the wreck, but the sea was so rough that she could not get alongside, and the men saved themselves by swimming or jumping from the rigging into the boat.

European Affairs.

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—Professor Virchow, in addressing his constituents this week, declared it was his intention to propose in the next Reichstag a general international disarmament as the true solution of the trouble and condition of Europe, and the revolt of an overburdened people. Prince William, of Hesse-Philippsthal, is dead.

Died in Court.

Special to the Journal.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Thomas Orehau, 80 years old and who is the father-in-law of the actor, Oliver Dodd Byron, died this morning in Justice Tighes' court-room. Deceased had been on a spree and his son caused his arrest. The officer brought him to Court this morning but he was taken ill and died. Orehau's oldest daughter is a well-known and accomplished actress, Miss Ada Rahau. Oliver Dodd Byron married the second daughter, who is also an actress of reputation. The youngest sister is in private life. Two sons are among the active business men of Brooklyn. The old man had become a confirmed drunkard.

Powderly Arrested.

Special to the Journal.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 19.—General Master Workman Powderly was well enough to walk out today, and the warrant sworn out by Callaghan was served upon him. Powderly at once proceeded to Alderman Fuller's office and gave bonds to answer in Westernland Court. Powderly's attorneys have the papers nearly completed charging Callaghan with malicious libel. Suit will be instituted next week.

Gen. Vallejo Dead.

Special to the Journal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—General M. G. Vallejo, one of the most conspicuous figures in the history of California, died at Sonoma today, aged 81. Gen. Vallejo was born at Monterey, in this State, and was identified with all the public events during the Mexican occupation of California, and was at one time military Governor of the country.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL.

A Measure Expected to be Ready in a Month.

SUGAR DUTIES WILL BE OUT.

Tobacco Likely to Remain Unchanged—A General Reduction in Rates Materials Probable—At Any Rate a Revision of the Tariff is Assured.

Washington, Jan. 18.—There will be no more regular hearings granted the various interests by the House Committee on Ways and Means.

The schedule of days on which the committee would listen to those who wished to speak in favor of certain interests has been exhausted, and the committee intends now to begin the work of preparing a regular tariff bill. A few irregular and informal hearings may be had. It is not believed that the bill which will be reported will abolish the tax on tobacco, as much opposition has recently arisen to it, so long as the sugar duty is maintained.

It is likely that the bill will make a sweeping reduction of the sugar duty.

The sugar question is the most perplexing that the committee will have to consider. There are members from the sugar belt and sugar cane producing sections of the West and South who will protest against any reduction whatever, while others are members who will contend for a large reduction of the duty or the placing of sugar on the free list.

The general idea seems to be that the proposition of General Browne, of Indiana, to cut the duty in half and give a bounty of 1 per cent, will finally prevail.

The committee appears to be in favor of a reduction of the duty on certain grades of wool and woollens and a very general modification of the tariff laws, so as to place raw materials upon the hands of the manufacturers and give cheaper goods to the people. There is no doubt that the duty will be reduced to the minimum required for the maintenance of the Government. A bill is expected within a month, and then will begin the general debate which must result in the final adoption of a bill of some kind.

MINISTER GRANT DINED.

He Sate at the Emperor's Table for the First Time.

Special to the Journal.

VIENNA, Jan. 18.—Minister Colonel Grant had the honor of dining on Friday last for the first time with Emperor Franz Joseph. The invitations were confined exclusively to the members of the diplomatic corps, which, despite the influenza, were fully represented. His majesty conversed long times after dinner with Minister Grant, and was pleased to find that he had the German element in Austria-Hungary by no means a facile complaisant. Acquiring the language since his appointment here, the surprise was all the more pleasant.

Minister and Mrs. Grant are installed for the winter in a handsome hotel in the Schwendmase under the shadow of the quaint dome of old Karl Kirche. On Mondays Mrs. Grant receives with great affability and avails the American colony as well as transient globe trotters from the States. Among the recent guests are Dewitt Talmage and Mrs. Talmage, of Brooklyn. The celebrated divine is on his way home from the Holy Land which he visited for study and recreation. Mrs. Talmage has been ill with la grippe during her two weeks' stay in Vienna, but her health is now completely restored. Dr. Talmage sails on the Anarum on the 25th to begin the rebuilding of his church.

There are eighteen patients in the county hospital.
If all the doctors get sick what will the people do?
The storm seems to be over so far as Reno is concerned.

"The Princess" again to-morrow night. Don't fail to see it.

Sixteen prisoners in jail, and most of them are gal of it.

The small boy is busy shoveling snow off the roofs and porches.

The big rotary plow is said to be off the track at Esmeralda Gap.

The floor will have been closed down for two weeks. No water.

No passenger trains are expected through for four or five days.

Both the Nevada Central and Eureka & Palisade railroads are blocked.

Reno may be out of butter, sugar and flour before the blockade is raised.

At 7 o'clock last evening it was snowing all the way from Wadsworth to Ogden.

Go and see how a "flash" photograph is made at "The Princess" Monday night.

Remember that "The Princess" is given for the benefit of the Reno public library.

John Bradley is quite ill, the result of recent exposure to the cold while out in Elko.

Thos. Kane, of Elko, is in town, and confirms the reports of the damages to the stock interests in that section.

The costumes for "The Princess" cost the library fund not one cent, as the cast furnished them all themselves.

A prompter at "The Princess" on Friday evening was a superbous functionary.

The players had no need of one.

There will be so many delinquents engaged here to-morrow night that the Opera House will be crowded. Secure your seats.

Truckee is said to be out of beef. Reno could easily supply a trainload of nice steers if the trains were running on time.

Nearly all the ditches are closed up with ice and snow, and stockmen have had considerable trouble in getting water for stock.

Miss Ab-nion, Mrs. King, Miss Jes-Elmyson, Miss Gerrie Shoemaker, and the other ladies in "The Princess," do splendidly.

The officers should preserve better order at the theater, when the plays are on. Small boys and some big boys need to be kept quiet.

The one night's experience before an audience will enable the cast of "The Princess" to make some few improvements for Monday's presentation.

Dr. Lewis and Frank Lee look funny in "The Princess" without the bismite depending on their upper lips. They have been shaved for the occasion.

The V. & T. makes a net profit of $1,000 per day, but has not tried to keep the road open during the storm. The company ought to buy a rotary snow plow.

Service in the M. E. Church at 11 A. M. Subject, "Prayer." Several adults will baptize. A rival sermon is the evening at 7 o'clock, followed by an altar service.

S. J. H. Johnson and wife returned from the East yesterday morning. They were married at Salt Lake. Their large circle of Reno friends wish them all the joys and happiness of married life.

"Flash" photographs of "The Princess" will be made during the progress of the play, and such as result in good pictures will subsequently be placed on sale for the benefit of the Reno Public Library.

The JOURNAL is a welcome boon these times, because the big city papers can't get here, and the JOURNAL's telegrams give all the news. But the JOURNAL has only enough paper on hand for one or two more issues.

W. B. Hopson, railway editor of the great New York World, arrived in Reno yesterday morning, and is still here much against his will, for he hoped to meet Nellie Big at San Francisco to-morrow, and report her back to New York in time to complete her trip around the world in 73 days. The snow blockade is apt to make Nellie lose the race.

WHAT ON EARTH
Is the reason people will not, and do not, see any difference in cheap nostrums put up by cheap John Jones or irresponsible parties at enormous profits, rather than take a medicine of world wide reputation and one that is giving universal satisfaction at a fair price? No matter how the world is giving such unsolicited satisfaction for verifying the blood as BLOOD PURIFIER AND BLOOD MAKER, and that does not do it will cost you nothing.

Hemstitching is the finish most in favor on high-grade table-cloths and household linen in general. This refined ornamentation appears of course on napkins to suit cloths which are chiefly in fruit patterns, and for luncheon, both display an addition of fringe and frequently also embroidery. In the way of china, much prestige attaches to the Russian which shows scenes of Wintery life. Danish china is the very latest importation, and is suggestive of India china in colorings of white and blue exclusively, but the patterns are very different, being large flowers in white on a cloudy blue groundwork.

DINNER CARDS.

Are often small sized and without ornament other than a gilt or silver edge, but to special order they may be large and hand-painted prettily enough to be worth taking away as remembrances at the occasion. Single rose leaves made of thick paper tinted pink by hand, may show the names of guests written in the hollows and are really poetical. In flowers orchids come first, but roses retain a high position and are frequently chosen by wealthy people who can pay any price. Centre pieces are a marked shape, and flowers laid at plates may consist of a few handsome selections placed loosely or perhaps tied. But there is no rule, and individual fancy governs. The sums of money spent here during the fashionable season, from December 1st to the beginning of Lent, are enormous, and paid not only for flowers, but evergreens. Christmas trees imported from Germany, brought high prices because prettier than anything American grown. The berries are more brilliant, the leaves smaller and of a much brighter green. One of rather small size was marked $75, a price readily given by millionaires.

FANCY DRESSES.

And bon-bons become each year more elaborate. Baskets made of candy are filled with dreams moulded in numerous shapes, and among the newest may be observed "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and "Effie" flowers. Fruits are, however, more appropriate than anything else, and the entire range finds representations, the individual plates from which they are eaten being wide open flowers or large sides leaves in candy. Originality of idea is, however, most desirable, and ladies not infrequently devise for themselves designs which are filled by French confectioners. A ship of candy freighted with miniature models is a rare invention for the center of the table, and large candy baskets filled with fruits or even flowers in cream are in much diversity. Ladies who cannot order from professions may amuse themselves by getting up fancy shapes in simpler fashion, and it can be added that Burnett's extracts are more frequently used here, because of purity, fine flavor and strength, the latter quality rendering them most economical.

NOTES AND ANSWERS.

An Eiffel tower arrangement of striped silk combined with wool is a late idea in costume. Two brads comp the front of the skirt and a seam is taken directly toward the center, the sides being slightly gathered and the stripes made to come together with a pointed effect. A waist of silk completes the costume, and there is usually a cut-out between bright colored stripes and somber wool material.

M. E. Unique combinations of colors are apple blossom with bright leaf green; pale olive and yellow; daisy and dark green; old blue and old gold; blue and maroon or cream; pink or blue and pearl color; bright yellow and pale green.

The turned up collar on capes and cloaks is found very becoming to slender faces, as it forms a sort of frame-work. What with extremely high shoulders and one or more feathers or blackbird wings shooting upward to an incredible height, a belle of to-day would seem an incredible personage were there not so many belles to give assurance of reality. Black astrakhan capes are very stylish with black turbans, toques or wide-brimmed hats to match.

LUCKY CARTER.

Train Notes.

At Truckee it was storming again last night.

A train was turned back for Ogden from Reno yesterday noon.

At Blue Canyon the situation is about the same. Snowing hard and drifting.

There are three west-bound passenger trains held at Reno and another arrived last night.

No. 1 has an engine off the track and No. 3 has one car off the track between Esmeralda Gap and Blue Canyon.

No freight is moving on the Sacramento division, and passenger trains are held at Sacramento, Colfax and Truckee.

A train and plow left at 4 P. M. with a gang of men to try and get to the passenger trains and put them on the track.

The snow plow with eleven engines, which left Truckee at 4 P. M., got as far as Donner bridge, was stalled and returned to Truckee.

All trains on the V. & T. are abandoned and no effort is made to open the road. It is reported that the snow is drifting badly at Franktown and American Flat.

The rotary plow is on the way west from Esmeralda Gap to try and get to the delayed passenger relief. Four engines, a car of provisions and a gang of shovellers are at Dutch Flat, bound east, to relieve passengers.

Tax in Humboldt County.

The Board of County Commissioners have laid the tax for the current year and fixed the rate at $2.65 on each $100 valuation. This is an increase of 5 cents on the rate of 1889, 85 cents of which is for school purposes. The object of the increase is to compensate the falling off in personal property from the failure of crops and loss of stock from the drought. It is agreed by those who have given the subject some attention that unless the rate is increased the schools will suffer, hence the increase for school purposes. Silver State.

A good girl can obtain a No. 1 situation. See 50-cent column.

A Difficult Trip and Ride.

The Elko Independent, of the 16th, records these casualties:

T. T. Harris arrived last evening with the Huntington mail. He started Sunday morning and succeeded in making ten miles the first day. Monday he traveled about ten miles more, and on Tuesday he reached Elko in getting to Elko, on South Fork, where he remained over night, and reached here about 5 o'clock last evening, having consumed four days in making the trip of about fifty miles. He says the snow in Huntington and Mound valleys will average about four feet deep, and the difficulties of traveling under such circumstances may be imagined.

For the first time this winter the Tuscarora stage failed to come through yesterday, and some uneasiness is felt regarding its fate. Last night was a terrible one, a fierce blizzard having set in about dark, and it is thought that the stage may have been caught in a drift in the Elko mountains. This morning a relief party was sent out provided with provisions, a coffee pot and other necessary articles, and dry pine wood with which to make a fire and prepare nourishment for the driver and passengers, provided they were any aboard the stage, in case they should be found snow-bound on the road.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. Feb. 21-st-ly.

A Hard Walk.

Jas. Maberry, who has been snowed in at Verdi, for a week past, walked from Verdi to his ranch yesterday, and then got a team to bring him to town. He says that the snow is so deep between Verdi and his ranch, that the railroad track is covered up so that even it can not be recognized from the balance of the country. Hence the walking is not good in that section.
